Lorraine Storry Mockford

Nova Scotia Community College

Canadá

Title: Learning Communities for Instructional Design

Synopsis:

An important principle of design is "the form follows a function" (Louis Sullivan, 1896). Whatever your philosophy of instructional design is, you will need to choose the best way that to promote the involvement of a learning community. This lecture will explore ways in which tools and online technologies can be used to build a community in the ongoing teaching / learning.